

In our university, where many disciplines coexist and work together, education is offered in 115 programs as associate and undergraduate degree programs.

As Hacettepe University, we provide the students with the opportunity to choose elective courses from many departments in social and quantitative sciences in associate and undergraduate degree programs. 87 of the 115 academic programs provide undergraduate degrees while 28 award associate degrees.

Together with our students, we carry out numerous nationwide and international social, technological, cultural and historical researches and projects in the faculties, schools and other units of the university. It is of critical importance for us to ensure our students' participation to such activities and increase their knowledge and experience.

Associate and undergraduate degree programs

Hacettepe, an international and a leading university

As Hacettepe University, we provide 38,000 students in both associate and undergraduate degree programs with a system of education in which we present all our experience and competency.

Within this context, the libraries of the university have the capacity to meet all information needs of its users and are open 24 hours a day all year round with free hot beverages service and other treats. Our libraries provide access to information with more than 360,000 books, magazines, audio-visual and electronic publications and more than 1,000 international periodicals. One can search through the catalogs of the library and reserve books or extend the loan periods via smart phones or mobile services.

Additionally, computers in the departments are open to use for researches on the Internet. High-performance workstations in the departments also present an opportunity for those who desire to perform comprehensive digital practices.

Moreover, privileged education is provided for our students thanks to collaboration and agreements with many leading institutions and firms such as Siemens, Mercedes, TRT (Turkish Radio and Television), and the Ministry of Culture, the world-renowned Zoology Museum where it is possible to examine more than 100,000 samples and Herbariums having more than 5,000 plant species samples.

We do believe that the education our students receive will not live up to our expectations unless it is backed up with social, cultural and sports activities. To this respect, we have more than 100 student clubs in various different areas. We greatly value our students' participation and role in preparation of such activities.
